Sigma Chi Derby To Feature Coeds

A slightly modified Sigma Chi Derby will be held tomorrow for the eighth straight year, starting at 1 p.m. on the west end of the baseball field.

All events will be the same as last year, except that the obstacle course has been eliminated and the queen contest burned Monday when her clothchanged. The changes resulted from conferences with repre-

This year, the queen candidates, one from each sorority's pledge class, will not be asked to step into the familiar Sigma Chi Derby form. Instead, they will stand outside, but in line with the profile of the "ideal" female figure.

The obstacle course has been eliminated because of complaints that it was too strenuous. A bas-ketball dribbling relay, with four girls on a team each racing 40 yards will replace the event.

Each sorority will put up selected contestants in each of the derby events. Trophies will be awarded for the highest total points in all events, to the queen, and to the team winning each

Inventions Of daVinci On Exhibit

On Sunday, November 3, the UK Art Gallery will present an exhibition of working models of the mechanical inventions of Leonardo da Vinci.

These models were constructed by Dr. Roberto Guatelli from the notes and drawings which da Vinci kept of all his inventions. The display has been widely shown and well received in Europe as well as in other parts of the United States.

Dr. Guatelli, an authority on Leonardo da Vinci, constructed these models for the Fine Arts Department of the I.B.M. Corporation, which is making the UK exhibit possible.

CLOTHES MAKE THE BMOC

Last week we passed along some fashion hints for coeds. Today we will do the same for college men.

The most important thing to remember, gentlemen, is to dress with verve, with dash, with inventiveness. Don't be imprisoned by the traditional conservatism of men's clothing. Brighten up your appearance with a single earring, or a cavalry saber, or a gold derby.

However, guard against gaudiness. If, for instance, you are wearing a gold derby, do not also wear a cavalry saber. This is too much. Wear a dagger instead, or, for formal occasions, a bowie knife.

Let us turn now to a persistent rumor that a garment called the "suit" is on the verge of making a comeback. Some of you older students may remember this "suit." It was an ensemble consisting of a jacket and trousers, both of which-this'll kill you-both of which were made out of the same material!

The last "suit" ever seen on an American campus was in 1941—and I ought to know because I was wearing it. I was an undergraduate then, and in love -hopelessly in love with a beauteous statistics major named Harry Sigafoos. (She is one of the two girls I have ever known named Harry. The other one is her sister.)

I loved Harry madly, though her expensive tastes were the ruin of me. Bit by bit I sold off my belongings to pursue this costly courtship-first my books, then my clothes, until finally I was left with nothing to wear but a "suit". One night I came calling for her in this garment and she, of course, slashed me across the face with a riding crop and sent me from her door.

I slunk home and lit a Marlboro and sat down to think. I always light a Marlboro when I sit down to think, for their good mild flavor is a great aid to cerebration. I always light a Marlboro when I don't sit down to think, too, because Marlboro is my favorite cigarette, and I know it will be yours, too, once you make the acquaintance of that filter, that flavor, that fliptop box. As the man says, you get a lot to like with

Well, sirs, smoking and thinking thus, my eye happened to fall on an ad in a campus newspaper which said: "WIN A COMPLETE WARDROBE! Touhy's Toggery, the campus's leading men's store, announces a contest to pick the best-dressed man on campus. The winner will receive absolutely free a complete new wardrobe!"

Struck by a sudden inspiration, I took pen in hand and wrote a letter to Mr. Touhy of Touhy's Toggery: "Sir-I see by the paper that you are giving a complete new wardrobe to the best-dressed man on campus. What a ridiculous idea!

"Obviously, to be the best-dressed man on campus, you must first have a lot of clothes, and if you have a lot of clothes, what do you need with another wardrobe?

"Touhy's Toggery should give a new wardrobe to the worst-dressed man on campus. Me, for instance. I am an eyesore. There isn't a crow in town that will come near me. Three times this month the Salvation Army salvage truck has picked me up. Esquire has canceled my subscription.

"I submit that a vote for me is a vote for reason, a vote for equity, a vote for the American way!"

With a flourish I signed the letter and sent it off, somehow feeling certain that very soon I would be wearing a complete new wardrobe. And I was right—because two weeks later I was drafted. Always fashionable, always correct for any occasion, is the bright red and white flip-top box of Marlboros, made for your pleasure by the sponsors of this column.

UK's First Career Carnival

The University of Kentucky Career Carnival opens to the public Tuesday morning. It is the first event of its kind here and the largest of its kind anywhere.

On the basis of what we have been able to learn about it, we heartily endorse it. If it is successfully continued, it holds promise of being of immeasurable value to both the University and to the firms represented.

To the University, it will mean that students can receive a practical, visual lesson in vocational counselling. Upper division students will be able to narrow down their professional goals to the few that interest them most. Lower division students who are as yet undecided on a career, can get firsthand information that may enable them to choose that field that is most in keeping with their interests and aptitudes.

The various business organizations that participate in the Carnival have a chance to join in a healthy, competitive event that can result in growth for them all.

We congratulate those people who are responsible for the Career Carnival, and trust that student and public interest will justify their efforts.

The Word From Above

The Sigma Chi Derby will take place tomorrow with one or two minor changes. There will be no obstacle course this year because the Sigma Chi's think it is too strenuous.

There will also be a change in the way the queen is chosen. No more will the girls step into the cutout form of the "ideal" figure to see who fits it. Instead, the candidates will stand near the form, the reason for this change being that a self-appointed Committee of Five disapproved of the cutout form idea.

This committee is made up of Dean of Men L. L. Martin. Dean of Women Doris M. Seward, their respective assistants, and a student representative of Panhellenic.

We agree with Sigma Chi President Bill Hammons that such matters should be placed in the hands of the Student Government Association. President Ravencraft of SGA has agreed to appoint a committee to investigate the matter.

Here is a chance for SGA and the entire student body to find out whether they have any voice at all in those things that directly affect them, or whether all standards must be dictated by the Committee of Five.

If the students do have a voice in such things, maybe the Committee can be stopped before it insists on knee-length bloomers and high button shoes, and UK becomes the laughing stock of the South.

UNIVERSITY SOAPBOX

Students Take Issue With Kernel Editorial

MARY ELLEN CURTIN DORIS ETHINGTON

(The SOAPBOX this week is devoted to a comprehensive reply to a recent Kernel editorial concerning the teaching of the sciences at UK. We remind you that any opinions expressed in the SOAPBOX are those of the writers, and not necessarily those of the editor. However, we do believe that the article this week contains some points well taken. The Ed.)

On Friday, Oct. 4, 1957, the Kentucky Kernel carried an editorial discussing the question of required laboratory courses. We agree with the writer of the editorial that one of the functions of the college is to develop within the individual "a well-rounded life, rich in interest, resourceful, capable of continuous growth and of adaptation to times and circumstances:" However, we do not agree with his view that the liberal arts student should be relieved of "getting his hands dirty in the laboratory." In his opinion, the omission of required laboratory courses would "help the average student by giving him a chance to learn something about several scientific fields . . This would suggest that whatever is taught in the laboratory is not fundamental to a knowledge of the scientific field, and is to be included only in the curriculum of the technical student.

We feel that what is taught in the laboratory is fundamental to all fields of science as well as essential in understanding the specific scientific field. The one thong that all the sciences have in common is the methods used for seeking answers to questions. Scientific methods replace opinions with empirical observations to answer questions about nature. The understanding of this method is acquired from experience in the laboratory situation. True, these methods can be verbalized to some extent, in much the same manner that the methods for obtaining an effect of movement or depth in a painting can be verbalized. Yet one wonders just how much more understanding of either of these types of methods is obtained with active participation on the part of the learner.

This question is not original with the present writers. but was in fact asked some time ago. Had it been asked in the time of the Greeks, the question would have been answered on the basis of opinion (much the same as the editorial of Oct. 4th). However, it was asked after the scientific method of experimentation was considered the best procedure for obtaining answers.

One of the major topics of investigation in experimental psychology has been the nature of learning and the conditions for effective learning. One of these experimental findings is that active participation on the part of the learner results in superior learning and retention of what is learned. In the sciences, the teaching laboratory is a device for attempting to secure the student's active participation. We do not contend that something about science cannot be learned without laboratory, but we do believe this evidence suggests that it can be learned better with laboratory.

Learning through participation is certainly not unique to science courses, but is an accepted method of learning in other situations, i.e., working problems in algebra, writing themes in Einglish, making case studies in social science, debating in public speaking, practicing keys in typing, conversing in foreign language, painting in art

In these fields, interest and ability are not only obtained but maintained through active participation. Also might we not be losing some potential scientists by not giving them the opportunity to learn the fundamentals of the field and participate in some of the aspects of scientific endeavor. As to career choice, more information about the field should foster wiser decisions.

We feel that an active participation in the field of science could help to build all of the qualities of which the editor spoke. In these present challenging times it is the responsibility of the individual not only to build these qualities within himself but to build the resourcefulness of his nation. In light of recent scientific developments in other countries it seems that our own national occurity depends on a more general knowledge of science as well as specifically trained scientists. An understanding on the part of educated people of the necessity of empirical observation might lead to a fuller appreciation of research by all.

In conclusion, we suggest some other alternative should be selected to alleviate crowded classroom conditions rather than to retreat and accept a second best method of instruction and learning. Would it not seem a better attack on the problem to increase the number of laboratories? This, of course, would require more finances for the physical plant as well as staff facilities. It is also possible that a general course in laboratory methods common to all scientific fields might be offered with the content relative to the several fields of science. As a last resort to alleviate crowded conditions, would it not be better to raise the standards of entrance, rather than to lower the standards of instruction?

The first woman to graduate from this institution was Miss Lena Hoeing in 1884. At that time many of the professors were worried about whether the female sex could measure up to the intellect of our brainy males. But, alas, with all the new distractions the pretty new coeds brought, the gents were soon found lagging.

For evidence of how totally taken in the boys were by these delicate young additions to the campus, here is a part of a poem written by one of the starry-eyed males to our first woman graduate:

Writer Explains Types Of Campus Bird Dogs

By KAY NEUF Kernel Dog Editor

(The author of this article is a native Dane, having been born in the city of Copenhagen during the Great Quarantine of '07. On a trip for the Society for the Preservation of Fireplugs in 1930, she met Sam Afghan and, following a heated courtship, they were married. Sam met his unfortunate demise in an automobile accident last year. He was struck down while chasing a Jaguar.-ED.)

Man has cultivated noble dog since the dawn of recorded history, and noble dog has repaid man by flourishing, branching out and multiplying to the extent that hundreds of breeds now

Not the least renowned of all dogs are those known simply They are usually seen wearing a fine coat (camel's hair, cashmere, vicuna) which makes them quite

These campus breeds have extraordinary senses of smell, and some varieties, it is rumored, can identify their quarry at 50 paces.

Upperclassmen are no doubt familiar with all breeds of our local bird dogs, but let us examine a few of them for the benefit of our freshmen, who may know nothing about the reckless fun to be had in the great sport of bird-dogging. THE POINTER:

This species may be found in any of the local kennels (at SUB dances, Joyland, the Sportsman, etc.), and he invariably spots his prey as soon as she enters the room. He announces her presence to his companions by twitching his nose, standing atop the table and pointing excitedly. After several seconds of this, he then shouts: "La! It's Myrna Snake!" This may be accompanied by barking, uncontrollable twitching, and some frothing at the mouth. THE SETTER:

You're at the darkest table in the room. You've just taken your date out to dinner, and afterwards

> He blithely starts chatting away. ignoring the elbow you have in his ribs or your bone-shattering kicks under the table. By the time he leaves, your date is yawning, he's smoked all your cigarettes, and the general atmosphere is about as romantic as a fishmarket. THE RETRIEVER

Imagine this: You've been dating Myrna Snake, campus beauty queen, for nigh onto a year. She is firmly convinced that you are honest, upright and thoroughly admirable. Furthermore, she thinks (as you have repeatedly told her) that she is the ONLY woman in your life, past or present.

Like any red-blooded, gumchewing American boy, you are going to be mortified when Roger Retriever joins you and Myrna Snake in the grill and inquires as to the whereabouts of ol' Florabunda, the girl to whom you were engaged when you were a sophomore. Before your horrified eyes, he will uncover more skeletons in your closets than you thought existed.

The last type of dog we shall consider is the sleeping dog. But watched her consume half your then, maybe it's better to just let bottle. She thinks you're Adonis sleeping dogs lie.

Keys Dance, SX Derby Are Coming Attractions

By LOUELLA WALDEN

this weekend are the Sigma Chi Derby and the Keys dance.

The Sigma Chi Derby performance will begin Saturday Ann Smith, DZ, phone 5-4220 at 1 p.m. on the baseball field. The stars will be pledges.

The Keys dance, with Buddy Diane Dvorak, DDD, to Terry Rogers' music, and the Sophomore Queen as box office, will curtain 8 p.m. at the SUB.

Along with our shows it appears there will be a queen to rule over

There will be the Sigma Chi Derby Queen construction. sculpture, and architecture; chosen for her jubilant and radiant exposed It's enough to bleach a ghost's sheet white. Yes, Halloween is nearing and imaginations are running wild.

Actually Halloween historically has some religious significance. In England it is known as All Hallow's Eve (the evening before All Saint's Day).

The pagan priests of early Britain celebrated it as a festival, associating it with both our mouern Thanksgiving and harvest

Even primitive man wore masks to frighten away evil demons. They thought during the fall that spirits arose from the underground. Fearing the haunts would carry them off, the prehistoric celt hid behind grotesque masks.

"Hello," she said, "I need help, Rutgers."

"The name's Cornell."

"Yes. I'm worried about my husband. Every night he stays out till six in the morning. He comes home with his hair mussed, lipstick all over his face. What's up?"

"The butler did it."

"Oh come, come, Yale."

"Cornell, dearie."

"Yes. I think my husband is unfaithful."

I exercised my think-tank. "The butler did it." I blurted.

"Look, Oklahoma Aggies-tell me what to do?"

"Find out the secret of his success with the femmes—then proceed from there. What brand of shirts does he wear?"

"Van Heusen."

"What brand of underwear and pajamas?"

"Van Heusen."

I threw up my hands—and watched them loft lazily up to the ceiling. "Babe," I said, "you can't fight Van Heusen. There's only one thing you can do. Marry the butler!"

Moral? No ladies worth their salt can resist Van Heusen merchandise. The morning discussion on Saturday was followed in the afternoon by a question-answer session with the administrative officials who were represented by students in the morning. It was during this registration was discussed.

Throughout the entire Leadership Conference, the various student leaders presented their viewpoints as to the difficulties facing campus organizations.

Generally two main problems seem to be facing the leaders of campus groups. One seems to be the problem of communications with the student body and the other, according to the delegates at the conference, is the feeling of apathy which seems to prevail among the members of the many-organizations.

One opinion on the Leadership Conference was offered by Pete Perlmen, vice-president of SGA. He said, "generally all the students attending the conference profited from it whether they are now aware of it or not. One basic weakness of it was the failure to take advantage of past experiences. To improve.. it, .. (future.. Leadership Conferences) we should profit from past experiences."

Dr. John S. Chambers said that the flu, expected to reach epidemic proportions last week, has been slowed due to the large number of persons receiving the vaccine.

"The threat of an epidemic", he added, "is by no means over and every precaution should be taken against it".

Sources at the University infirmary report that many persons who received the first inoculation have not returned to receive the second. They stress that it is important to complete the series of two inoculations and urge all persons who have not done so to attend to this immediately.

Cats Favored Over Rival For First Time This Season; Frosh Harriers Win Opener

By ED FORD, Sports Editor

For the first time this season the University of Kentucky Wildcats will enter a football game as the favorite. It's a strange role for the Cats, who have had to take second billing to each of their previous five opponents. The oddsmakers have generally installed Kentucky as six and one-half point favorites over Coach Wally Butt's Bulldogs.

Georgia like Kentucky, has not had too much success this season. The Bulldogs have a 1-4 record, their only victory being a 13-6 decision over Tulane two weeks ago. Butts' squad has lost to Texas 26-7, Vanderbilt 9-6, Michigan 26-0, and Navy 27-14.

According to Kentucky scout Ed Rutledge, the Bulldogs are a "big, rough ball club with its most experienced backfield in years." They are capable of winning through the air, on the ground, or on breaks, Rutledge reported.

An unusual thing concerning Georgia's offense is the fact that they led the conference in pass offense after their first three games. Since then, however, they have thrown but nine passes. On the ground the Bulldogs are definitely a threat with hard-running fullback Theron Sapp. Sapp is currently the league's second leading ground gainer with a 4.9 average. His average is topped only by LSU's sophomore sensation Billy Cannon who boasts a mark of better than seven yards per carry.

Incidentally, it will be the third straight week that Kentucky has faced an outstanding fullback. Last week they ran up against Jimmy Taylor of LSU and the week before it was Auburn's Billy Atkins.

Georgia also has the SEC's top pass receiver in right halfback Jimmy Orr. Orr has caught 12 passes for 172 yards. In addition, Orr is one of the conference's leading punters with a 39.4 average.

Other Georgia backs to keep your eye on are a couple of sophomore quarterbacks, Charley Britt and Tommy Lewis, and halfback Capt. Jefferson Davis. Britt has completed 18 of 40 passes this season for 236 yards. Davis, who has been out most of the season with a groin injury, led the SEC in punt return average last year with 29.3 yards per try.

As it stands, tomorrow night's contest should be an interesting one. Now that Kentucky is favored for the first time, maybe they will get the good breaks-also for the first time.

Kittens Win-The University of Kentucky's freshman cross country team opened its season in a fine fashion Tuesday with a 15-45 victory over Eastern High School of Louisville. The Kittens of Coach. Bob Johnson took the first six positions as Leo Zani was first in the two-mile run in 11:35.

Bulldogs Invade Stoll Field To Play Win-Hungry Cats

By LARRY VAN HOOSE

SEC cellar-dweller Kentucky meets battle-scarred Georgia on Stoll Field at 8:00, C.D.T. tomorrow night in a clash between two teams who have been trampled on by some of the nation's finest football units.

Both teams have suffered a rocky start as a murderous schedule has taken its toll. The Cat and Bulldog fight will find the felines still looking for that first win, while Coach Wally Butts' make the Cats' slate read 0-5.

Likewise, Georgia has taken on formidable opposition with almost the same disastrous results as their Bluegrass opponent. After absorbing three straight losses to start the season, Georgia beat Tulane. Last week-end, Navy uprooted the Bulldogs by a 27-14 count. Texas, Vanderbilt, and Michigan measured the 'Dogs in the first three tilts.

Georgia and Kentucky first played in Louisville in 1939. Primarily a passing team, the Bulldogs have Billy Hearn, a senior who hit on 43 percent of his passes last year, at quarterback. The backfield has Jeff Davis, the Georgia captain, at left halfback, Wilbur Loften at fullback, and Jimmy Orr at right half. Slated to see plenty of action when the Southerners come to town this weekend is handyman Carl Manning, who led the Georgia team in average yardage per carry last year with a 4.3 mark.

If Hearn should falter at the signal-calling position, Coach Butts will call on two top-flight sophomore passers, Charlie Britt and Tommy Lewis to carry the team. With this combination of good soph subs and the vets in the backfield. Georgia could be a surprise.

SWEATER SWING - Yes, there is a big swing to sweaters-of all types - soft knits - bulky knits cru-necks-V necks-sleeveless cardigans-long sleeved cardigans (of the low button "Pat Boone" variety) in solid colors or patterned. Several good sweaters are a must for any college man's attire-besides being so practical—they are darned good looking! - So - get in the "swing" with a sweater.

WIDE SHOULDERS AND SLIM WAIST? — And have a real hassel trying to be fitted in some threads (suits that is)-well, I take pleasure in announcing that we can now give you the shoulder room you need and still fit you at the waist, without carving your pants up like the traditional "Thanksgiving Turkey." I think it is time some of the manufacturers changed their standards of measurements - so the hard to fit guy can wear something half way decent looking.

ALL WOOL SLACKS

Flannels, worsteds, sheen gabardines. They're the last word because they were designed with YOU in mind. Maybe the phraseology is trite, but the slacks are real gone-and that's not breeze, brother; it's bucks in your budget.

Reg. $3.95 to $4.95 Sellers
